Market Review

Greater China markets continued their positive momentum from May into June on positive sentiment following more positive developments in negotiations between US and China post trade talks in May in Geneva. Markets were also quick to shrug off concerns of increased conflict in the Middle East. President Trump announced that US tariffs on Chinese goods would remain at a significant 55%, comprising a 30% blanket tariff and an existing 25% tariff on specific products. US Secretary of Commerce, Howard Lutnick, also confirmed that the existing US tariff levels on Chinese goods would not change. Despite this, the overall sentiment from the negotiations has been somewhat positive, particularly following the Geneva agreement, which initiated a wave of de-escalation in trade tensions. Both nations have indicated that they have established a framework to implement the Geneva agreement, pending final approval from their respective presidents. With the looming tariff deadline of July 9th taking center stage in the US-China trade discussions held in London, the Trump administration has hinted at possible extensions. In late June 2025, both sides reached an agreement to ease export of rare earth to the US, marking a potential easing in their ongoing trade tensions. This development follows negotiations in Geneva in May, where China committed to removing non-tariff countermeasures it had imposed since April 2, which included adding rare earths to its controlled export list in retaliation for new US tariffs. Geopolitical tensions in the Middle East took center stage but receded on a fast de-escalation. Despite strikes on Iran's oil infrastructure, fears of a broader escalation waned when Iran chose not to block the Strait of Hormuz. This decision eased worries about significant supply disruptions and led to a drop in oil prices, falling sharply below $67 per barrel from a high of $77.08 on June 19. The Dow Jones Greater China Islamic Market Index rose 3.99 % in USD terms in June. MSCI China rose 3.10%, Hong Kong's Hang Seng Index rose 3.24% whilst the Shanghai Shenzhen 300 rose 3.00% in USD terms. Meanwhile, the Taiwan's stock market rose 5.96% in the month. During the month, the Fund returned 3.53% outperforming the benchmark by 66 bps in the month. Key contributors were overweight positions in selected Technology names in Taiwan which benefitted from return of sentiment in AI theme. Overweight positions in selected Consumer Discretionary and Healthcare names in China also benefitted the Fund.

Fund Review & Strategy

Following strong 1Q25 GDP growth, the Chinese economy moderated through 2Q, with significant volatility around US tariff policy. Economic performance remained mixed across sectors. For 1H25, the Chinese economy likely saw decent, 5.2% YoY growth in 1H25, staying comfortably above the 5% official growth target. However, with 1H25 growth above 5%, the likelihood of additional policy stimulus around the July Politburo meeting is reduced, potentially shifting focus from counter-cyclical to structural issues. Key policy actions to watch include addressing evolutionary competition, cutting excess capacity, and supporting service consumption and social safety networks. The July Politburo meeting will assess 1H economic activity and set policy guidelines for 2H25. Regarding tariff policy, bilateral meetings held in Geneva and London have helped reduce tensions between China and the United States. Both nations remain cautious about potential disruptions and are actively seeking mutually beneficial approaches to coexistence. The tariff rollback initially boosted optimism, but renewed tensions and non-tariff actions have since damped investor confidence. Fund took profit on China and increased weight in Taiwan technology stocks following swift de-escalation in tariffs and revisited AI theme. Fund is positive on the AI story in China and Taiwan and will look to balance this out with holdings in theatics that the Fund continues to favor - AI supply chain, technology self-sufficiency, EV batteries & EV and High-end manufacturing (automation & robotics). Within holdings in Taiwan, Fund favors stocks AI supply chain where expectations have been reset and are expected to benefit from ramp up of production on Nvidia's chips in 2H25.

Tinjauan Bulanan

Pasaran Greater China meneruskan momentum positif dari Mei hingga Jun berdasarkan sentimen positif susulan perkembangan yang lebih menggalakkan dalam rundingan antara AS dan China selepas rundingan perdagangan pada Mei di Geneva. Pasaran juga pantas mengenepikan keimbangan mengenai peningkatan konflik di Timur Tengah. Presiden Trump mengumumkan bahawa tarif AS ke atas barang China akan kekal pada 55% yang besar, terdiri daripada tarif menyeluruh 30% dan tarif sedia ada 25% ke atas produk tertentu. Setiausaha Perdagangan AS, Howard Lutnick, turut mengesahkan bahawa tahap tarif AS sedia ada ke atas barang China tidak akan berubah. Namun begitu, sentimen keseluruhan rundingan itu agak positif, terutamanya susulan perjanjian Geneva, yang meredakan kemelut perdagangan. Kedua-dua negara telah menyatakan bahawa mereka telah mewujudkan rangka kerja bagi melaksanakan perjanjian Geneva, sementara menunggu kelulusan akhir daripada presiden masing-masing. Dengan tarikh akhir tarif pada 9 Julai tidak lama lagi menjadi tumpuan utama dalam perbincangan perdagangan AS-China yang diadakan di London, pentadbiran Trump telah membayangkan kemungkinan akan ada kesinambungan. Pada akhir Jun 2025, kedua-dua pihak mencapai kata sepakat untuk mengurangkan eksport nadir bumi ke AS, menandakan ketegangan perdagangan mereka yang berlarutan berpotensi untuk mengendur. Perkembangan ini merupakan susulan rundingan di Geneva di bulan Mei, yang mana China komited untuk menghapuskan langkah balas bukan tarif yang telah berkuat kuasa sejak 2 April, termasuk meletakkan nadir bumi ke dalam senarai eksport terkawalnya sebagai tindak balas terhadap tarif baru AS. Ketegangan geopolitik di Timur Tengah menjadi perhatian utama namun ianya telah reda dengan mendadak. Meskipun infrastruktur minyak Iran dihujani serangan, namun keimbangan berhubung ketegangan yang semakin memuncak telah surut tatkala Iran memilih untuk tidak menyekat Selat Hormuz. Keputusan ini meredakan kerisauan yang besar mengenai gangguan bekalan lalu membawa kepada penurunan harga minyak, yang jatuh mendadak di bawah USD67 setengah daripada paras tertinggi USD77.08 pada 19 Jun. Indeks Dow Jones Greater China Islamic Market meningkat 3.99% dari terma USD pada bulan Jun. MSCI China menginjak 3.10%, Indeks Hang Seng Hong Kong menggapai 3.24% manakala Shanghai Shenzhen 300 mencecah 3.00% dalam terma USD. Sementara itu, pasaran stok Taiwan menokok 5.96% pada bulan tinjauan. Pada bulan tersebut, Dana mengembalikan 3.53% mengatasi penanda aras sebanyak 66 mata asas. Penyumbang utama pencapaian merupakan kedudukan pegangan berlebihan dalam saham Teknologi terpilih di Taiwan yang meraih manfaat daripada sentimen pulangan dalam tema AI. Kedudukan pegangan berlebihan dalam saham Pengguna Bukan Keperluan dan Penjagaan Kesihatan tertentu di China juga memberi manfaat kepada Dana.

Tinjauan & Strategi Dana

Berikutkan pertumbuhan KDNK 1Q25 yang kukuh, ekonomi China menelusuri 2Q secara sederhana diiringi ketidaktentuan ketara yang melegari dasar tarif AS. Prestasi ekonomi kekal bercampur-campur merentas sektor. Meninjau 1H25, ekonomi China mungkin menyaksikan pertumbuhan yang baik iaitu 5.2% YoY, kekal melebihi sasaran pertumbuhan rasmi 5%. Walau bagaimanapun, dengan pertumbuhan 1H25 yang melebihi 5%, kemungkinan berlakunya ransangan dasar tambahan sekitar mesyuarat Politburo Julai akan berkurangan, lalu berpotensi mengalihkan fokus daripada isu kitaran balas kepada struktur. Tindakan dasar utama yang perlu diperhatikan termasuk menangani persaingan involusi, mengurangkan kapasiti berlebihan dan menyokong penggunaan perkhidmatan dan rangkaian keselamatan sosial. Mesyuarat Politburo Julai akan menilai aktiviti ekonomi 1H dan menetapkan garis panduan dasar bagi 2H25. Mengenai dasar tarif, mesyuarat dua hala yang diadakan di Geneva dan London telah membantu mengendurkan ketegangan antara China dan Amerika Syarikat. Kedua-dua negara tetap berhati-hati berhubung potensi berlakunya gangguan dan secara aktif mencari pendekatan yang saling memanfaatkan demi kebaikan bersama. Penarikan balik tarif pada mulanya menyemarakkan harapan, namun ketegangan yang muncul semula dan tindakan bukan tarif kemudiannya melemahkan keyakinan pelabur. Dana mengaut keuntungan di China dan meningkatkan pegangan dalam stok teknologi Taiwan susulan kemelut tarif yang reda dengan pantas dan mengkaji semula tema AI. Dana berpandangan positif berhubung perihal AI di China dan akan cuba mengimbangnya dengan pegangan dalam tematik yang terus digemari oleh Dana - rantaian bekalan AI, teknologi mandiri, bateri EV & EV serta pembuatan berteknologi tinggi (automasi & robotik). Berkeraian pegangan di Taiwan, Dana mengutamakan stok rantaian bekalan AI yang mana jangkaan telah ditetapkan semula dan diharap akan beroleh manfaat daripada peningkatan pengeluaran cip Nvidia pada 2H25.
